The Saguro's punched-up poolside

WEEKEND FLING

Flight time from Dallas: 1 hour 45 minutes

Scottsdale, Ariz.

Cuddle up: In a world of beige adobe, the Saguro Hotel's brilliant hues, inspired by Arizona wildflowers, refresh. Opened just this November in the former Mondrian building, the Saguro occupies a prime perch on the 2½-acre Civic Center Mall park, offering pedestrian access to trendy museums, hot restaurants and swinging bars. The latter two can be found in-house, in fact, in chef José Garces' whiskey-centric bar and Mexican restaurant, Distrito. Return to one of the Saguro's 195 rooms furnished with platform beds or to the deep-soaking tubs that ring two pools. Also on the premises: a spa with 30-minute mini appointments for time-pressed primping.

Venture out: Walk across the green to the small-but-smart Scottsdale Museum of Contemporary Art on a Friday or Saturday night, when the new SMOCA Lounge serves cocktails to the arty crowd (480-499-8587, smoca.org).

Book it: Rooms from $189; 480-308-1200; jdhotels.com/hotels/saguro.

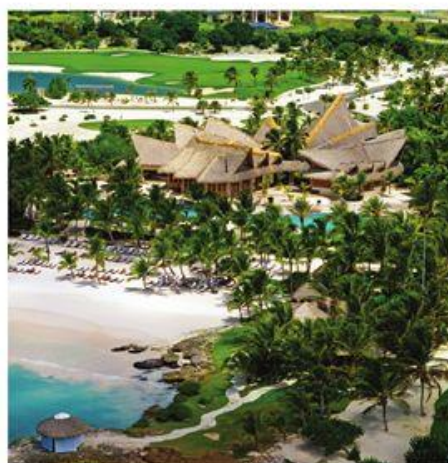

The Saguro's psychedelic take on Southwestern style extends to the guest rooms

Eden Roc's beachfront bungalows

GOING STEADY

Flight time from Dallas: 4 hours 2 minutes

Cap Cana, Dominican Republic

Cuddle up: The 30,000-acre Cap Cana development on the DR's eastern shore, a 10-minute drive from the Punta Cana airport, recently debuted two resorts, both with access to more than five miles of white-sand beaches for long sunrise strolls. The new Fishing Lodge Cap Cana offers 220 suites and one- to three-bedroom villas arrayed around a network of four pools, two restaurants and three bars beside a 370-acre marina. The more upscale Eden Roc Cap Cana opens this month with 33 suites, each with its own pool and outdoor shower, plus three freestanding bungalows on the beach.

Venture out: Tee up on the resort's renowned Punta Espada Golf Course, designed by Jack Nicklaus. The indolent option: a treatment in the 20,000-square-foot spa at the neighboring Sanctuary Cap Cana resort.

Book it: Fishing Lodge rooms from $149; 1-866-855-4886, grandresortsatcapcana.com. Eden Roc rooms from $660; 809-469-7469, edenroccapcana.com.
