

02/06/2008

TALK

Discussing with the stars

The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater is in town to perform at the Wang Theater tomorrow through Feb. 10, but before the dancers do what they do they'll talk about what they do at "The Legacy of Alvin Ailey." Artistic director and former Ailey dancer Judith Jamison will introduce dancers Kirven J. Boyd (right, in blue, with Matthew Rushing), who trained with Boston Youth Moves, and Renee Robinson. The dancers will talk about the history and vision of Alvin Ailey and the company's ties to Boston; they'll also share their experiences with the company and describe what it means to be an Ailey dancer. A Q&A and refreshments follow the discussion, part of Macy's annual celebration of Black History Month. 6 p.m. Free. Macy's Downtown Crossing, Boston. 617-357-2727. macyjs.com [June Wulff]

WEDNESDAY Feb. 6, 2008
The Boston Globe
boston.com/sidekick

Your Guide to a Better Day